REAR-ADMIRAL IS GOVERNOR

Arab Tribesmen Adjacent to Tripoli Beg
Italian Naval Officers Not to Resume
the Bombardment—Turkish Gunboat Sunk.

Tripoli, Oct. 6.—The Italians established a new government for Tripoli to-day. Rear-Admiral Boreddine was appointed governor, and Captain Caligi was made commander of the forces who were disembarked by the Italian fleet. Italian seamen occupy Fort Sultana.

The chiefs of the Arab tribes adjacent to Tripoli boarded the Italian flagships and gave their submission. They begged the Italians not to resume the bombardment.

The German consul as senior member of the consular corps asked Vice-Admiral Paravilla to assume responsibility for the preservation of public order and for the protection of foreign residents here, who were abandoned by the Turks. The occupation of Tripoli in a military sense was accomplished without incident.

London, Oct. 6.—The Italian flag floats over Sultana fort at Tripoli, which is occupied by landing parties. Part of the fleet is anchored in the harbor, and the other warships lie at short distance from the dismantled fortifications. Few bodies of Turks have been found among the ruins of the forts, and apparently no great number of Turks were killed by the bombardment.

According to a Constantinople report, not yet confirmed, the Italian warships bombarded Benghazi and Derna yesterday. Various rumors concerning a naval engagement in Turkish waters, an attack against Mytilene and the blowing up of the Italian battleship Conte-di-Cavour at Tripoli have not been confirmed from any quarter.

An interesting report is current in Constantinople that while Germany favors the adoption of the Italian ultimatum as the basis of peace negotiations, Great Britain proposes that Tripoli shall become a privileged tributary Turkish vilayet under joint Turco-Italian administration, and thus retain the suzerainty of the sultan.

TURKISH GUNBOAT
HAS BEEN SUNKWas Attacked by Italian Cruiser After Latter Had Been Fired on by Turkish Fort.

Rome, Oct. 6.—Provoked because she was fired upon by the Turkish fort at Hodeidah, the Italian cruiser Artusa attacked a Turkish gunboat and sank her.

Turkey has taken the offensive in the Red sea. Italian war craft have been ordered to chase the Turkish gunboats.

MEDIATION IS NOT ACCEPTABLE NOWTripoli Must First Be Occupied by an Expedition From Italy, According to Statement To-day.

Berlin, Germany, Oct. 6.—Although the Italians landed marines at Tripoli, it is understood here that mediation will not be acceptable before the city has been occupied by an expedition from Italy. Germany, in the meantime, is endeavoring to restrain Turkey from taking any measures which might lessen the hope of successful mediation.

BRITISH STEAMER

as a Prize of War.

Salonica, Turkey, Oct. 6.—The Turkish battleship Feth-i-Bulend held up and searched the British steamer Orchis to-day and, finding 40 barrels of powder aboard, the warship brought the vessel here as a prize of war.

SENTENCED FOR FORGERY.

Henry L. Sweet Pleaded Guilty and Gets
Two Years.

Burlington, Oct. 6.—Henry L. Sweet of Milton and Swanton, pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny on two counts in Chittenden county court yesterday and was sentenced by Judge A. A. Hall to serve not less than two nor more than three years at hard labor in the state's prison at Windsor.

In May, Sweet, accompanied by his wife and daughter, tried unsuccessfully to work a bungling bunco game. At the store of the Syndicate Clothing company and at the store of the American Clothing company he tried to pass bogus checks which were written with a lead pencil and drawn on the Franklin County Savings Bank & Trust company. They were reported to be signed by Allan A. Phillips of St. Albans. The check presented at the first named store called for $65.50 and was not honored. The check presented at the Red 46 was for $40 and was cashed, part of the payment being taken in goods.

The fraud was first detected by T. B. Wright, manager of the Syndicate store, and Sweet and his wife soon thereafter were placed in jail. The woman was released later on her own recognizance so that she might care for the small girl.

James N. Gall and John Wallace went to Morrisville this afternoon on a business trip.

An I. M. P. picture "Told by the Sea," a Reliance film, and two other excellent photo plays at the Bijou to-day and to-morrow.

ENTHUSIASTIC OVER WILEY.

Audience in Burlington Greeted Chemist
Most Genially.

Burlington, Oct. 6.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the national pure food expert, "who stands between us and slow death," appeared yesterday afternoon at the teachers' conference held in connection with the inauguration of President Benton, and was greeted with boisterous applause, the entire audience in the big lecture room rising as one man, in honor of the chief whose vindication by President Taft has made him more than ever the idol of the American people.

Professor Messenger, who presided at the educational conference, had announced during the morning session that Dr. Wiley was expected, and would probably make a brief address. The speech which the noted chemist made was full of hearty good nature and sparkling wit, and he created among his audience the impression of a man honest at heart and sincere in purpose.

The lecture by Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis in the evening was the second feature of general interest that marked the first of the inauguration days. The morning and afternoon were given up to the educational conference, and in the evening, at the close of the lecture by Dr. Hillis, there was a well attended meeting of the Vermont State Alumni association, held at the Ethan Allen club house on College street.

The alumni elected officers as follows: President—Dr. W. N. Bryant, '73, of Ludlow.

Vice president—G. W. Bailey of Essex Junction and J. W. Redmond of Newport.

Secretary and treasurer—H. C. Shurtliff of Montpelier.

Executive committee—E. W. Lawrence of Rutland, E. H. Deavitt of Montpelier, W. R. Austin of St. Albans, H. B. Shaw of Burlington and J. O. Sherburne of Randolph.

CHINA BATTLE LOSSES
WERE 10,000 PEOPLEInsurgents and Chinese Government Troops Engaged in Bloody Encounter, Rebels Losing Most.

Peking, China, Oct. 6.—American Methodist missionaries at Chengtu, the recently besieged capital of Szechuen province, telegraphed to-day that they estimate 10,000 persons were killed during the fighting between insurgents and government troops. Of the dead, 2,000 were soldiers and the others were rebels.

Ten thousand rebels are in possession of several cities southwest of Chengtu. The soldiers are marching against them. The Methodists state that as a result of the uprising, thousands of natives are homeless and many, becoming desperate, committed suicide.

New York, Oct. 6.—The Giants will take the field against Connie Mack's Athletics Oct. 14, as favorites, at odds of 8 to 5 in the world's championship series. According to the betting to-day, half a million dollars, it is estimated, will be wagered on the contest. Pools of thousands of dollars are being made.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

"The Witching Hour" at Barre Opera House Next Tuesday.

"The Witching Hour," which ran for two years in New York City, comes to the Barre opera house on Tuesday, Oct. 10, under the direction of George W. MacGregor & Co., may be aptly described as "a hypnotic success." Not only has it fascinated with an almost hypnotic force the many thousands of playgoers who have seen it performed; it actually dares to take up the subject of hypnotism and to show all the curious complications that might result from the overmastering will power of a single individual endowed with gifts of mesmeric power and mental telepathy.

"The Baseball Star From Bingley."—

Jim McGuffey has made a hit with his hometown scrub nine, when he is discovered by a "scout" for one of the teams of the National league. Immediately he is offered a contract and told to appear at the office of the city league, where his first assignment has been to leave his home town with the congratulations of all the citizens, he appears on the big league field next day for practice. It is found that while he is a good batter he is too fat to run and is told that if he will get out and work off his superfluous flesh there will be some hopes for him. With waning hope, he visits a specialist, who recommends a series of steam baths. Jim is put in the bath and, told to ring the bell if the room is too hot. A few minutes later, when the doctor is absorbed in other affairs, he is visited by a friend, who has tickets to the ball game. The scenes that follow are the funniest ever witnessed. It's at Dreamland.

The vaudeville at the Pavilion is excellent. Both acts are decidedly good. The first act, which has been running for a big hit last night, was presented by the DeVans. It was undoubtedly the finest novelty offering ever presented at that popular little theatre. The pyramid of chairs and tables, which the man builds and balances on his head, is really remarkable, and the act holds the audience breathless. The lofty aerial work done by the lady is also good. Kelley and Adams, the Irish comedy act, were a big hit. The lady in this act is endowed with a singing voice of remarkable beauty. Their comedy is excellent and the dancing good. The audience liked them so well that they would not let them go until they had done two or three encore numbers. The picture that should be of great interest to all Vermonters will be seen at the Pavilion to-day and to-morrow. It is entitled "The Capture of Fort Ticonderoga." The picture was actually played and photographed in our state. The scenes are laid in and around Ausable chasm and old Fort Ticonderoga and on the Vermont shores of Lake Champlain. It shows a fine life portrayal of Gen. Ethan Allen, one of Vermont's most famous Revolutionary generals, and his famous Green Mountain Boys storming and capturing Fort Ticonderoga.

Miss Cora Holbrook left this afternoon for a short visit with friends in Montpelier and Waterbury.

FRENCH FLAG
IS HOISTEDOver Fort at Agadir, Morocco,
Despite Protest

GRAVE COMPLICATIONS ARISE

French Government at Once Disavowed the Action and Took Steps to Have the Flag Hauled Down—Germany Greatly Concerned.

Berlin, Germany, Oct. 6.—A group of Frenchmen hoisted a French flag over the fort at Agadir, Morocco to-day, threatening grave international complications. It is announced that France proclaimed a protectorate and that a French cruiser is en route for Agadir. The French government immediately disavowed the action, and as it is not represented at Agadir it instructed the French consul at Mogador, to ask the Moroccan authorities to take measures to remove the flag and end the incident. According to the advice here, the Frenchmen are defying the local call of Agadir, who, on his own responsibility, ordered the French colors lowered.

The call appealed to the commander of the German warship in the harbor. He refused to interfere. The incident created excitement in southern Morocco, and the German foreign office is said to be satisfied with the measures adopted by the French government.

AMERICAN TOBACCO WILL FIGHT.

Everything Points to Protracted Struggle
When Reorganization Comes Up.

New York, Oct. 6.—The organization of independent dealers, under the leadership of Attorney Louis D. Brandeis, indicates a protracted struggle when the public discussions of the American Tobacco company's reorganization plans begin next week before the U. S. circuit court. The attitude of the federal government is yet uncertain. Attorneys for the tobacco trust, which was ordered dissolved by the supreme court, expected to submit a scheme to Attorney General Wickersham to-day.

ONE BALLOON DOWN

Storm and Landed This Morning, Leaving Eight in

The single exception was the America II, which landed this morning after weathering a severe storm. All the other balloons are believed to be sailing northward over Minnesota.

Stanyan of Montpelier, who not long ago returned from an Esperanto congress in Belgium, will have charge of the class.

Owing to its increase in membership, and a growing necessity for more space, Clan Gordon, No. 12, O. S. C., has moved its furniture from the Eastman block into spacious rooms on the third floor of the Bolster block. The new quarters of the clan have recently been thoroughly renovated.

Ms. C. S. Wallace received a telegram from her daughter, Miss Lu M. STATE C. E. CONVENTION CLOSED LAST NIGHTRev. Fraser Metzger of Randolph Was Re-elected President—Addresses
Interesting and Inspiring —Session Successful.

Randolph, Oct. 6.—Never has Randolph had a more interesting convention held in its limits than the state Christian Endeavor meeting just closed. The enthusiastic delegates, who numbered about 100 and the very able speakers, all conspired to make the session one of profit and pleasure as well. The meetings held in Bethany church on Wednesday were largely of class work, giving the latest methods adopted in foreign and home missionary work and also that of junior Endeavor activities as well. The evening service at music hall was attended by a large audience, who at the opening of the session were by a devotional service, by Rev. J. B. Sargent of Northfield, followed by music by the combined choirs and a beautiful solo by Miss Blanche Sparhawk. Music hall orchestra contributed to the pleasure of the evening by a well selected program previous to the opening session.

Rev. S. Fay Smith of East Northfield, Mass., gave the address of the evening and took for his text, "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this." Mr. Smith said that like Esther, Christian Endeavor had been raised up to meet the need of the times and was called into existence by the providence of God. There never was a time when there were so many organizations, nor when the individual counted for so much. Again he said that we are living in the age of young people, when all are better prepared and trained for work early in life. After Mr. Smith's address, Mr. Karl Lehmann of Denver, Col., field secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, was introduced and followed with a very interesting address, giving many illustrations to prove the truth of his statements. C. E. S., the initials of Christian Endeavor, stand for consecration, enthusiasm and service. His talk was listened to with great interest through the entire time and all were greatly profited. Following this, Mr. Lehmann met the delegates, and gave 28 points of a scheme for Christian Endeavor work, which the Boston office is anxious to put into effect.

Thursday morning about 30 Endeavorers went to Marl-Castle park for a sunrise prayer meeting, gathering about a bonfire and were led by Rev. William L. Bolcourt of Waterbury. The training classes were in session during the forenoon and at a business meeting the following officers for the coming year were elected: President, Rev. Fraser Metzger; vice president, Rev. Ernest M. Holman of Derby; secretary, Miss Beulah B. Bates of Bennington; assistant secretary, Miss Clemens Seaver of Barton; treasurer, Wallace H. Gilpin of Barton; junior superintendent, Miss Julia Loomis of Bennington; assistant, Rev. Ralph H. Tibbals of South Londonderry; superintendent of continuity and local union work, Chester Risk of Poultney; superintendent of Bible study and evangelism, Rev. Charles F. Eicherbecker of Windsor; transportation manager, J. G. Underwood of Hartland; superintendent of introduction department, Mrs. W. G. Fuller of Richmond; auditor, Leslie H. Rumrill of Randolph. The following were also elected a lookout committee, Mrs. Chester Bixby of Poultney, Rev. S. S. Mills of Bennington, J. C. Underwood of Hartland, Rev. W. H. H. Convery and Rev. E. P. Treat of Richmond.

The exercises of the afternoon were composed of reports of committees and other business held in Bethany church and an exercise by fifty juniors in the music hall. The evening service was held in music hall and was opened by a praise service, followed by replies from different county unions, which were very interesting and with the close of the session a host of worthies, leaving many pleasant remembrances as well as much spiritual helpfulness, with all those who attended.

FEARING BLINDNESS
HE KILLED HIMSELFEdrick George, An Old Resident of Hardwick Made Away With Himself by Shooting.

Hardwick, Oct. 6.—The body of Edrick George, an old resident of this town, was found in a field back of the hotel in this village yesterday afternoon with a bullet hole in the mouth. A 32-calibre revolver tightly clasped in his right hand told the story of his death, which was apparently instantaneous.

He had been suffering from ill health for some time and the thought that he was soon to lose his sight is suspected of being the cause of the suicide. He had been dependent for several weeks and had more than once said that "there was a place in the river for him." Yesterday he appeared to be worse and at little dinner, staying in bed during the forenoon.

About 1 o'clock, an employee of the house went into his room and found that he had gone. Suspecting suicide at once, he raised an alarm and a party went in search of him. They came upon him stretched out in the field. The examination of the health officer showed the bullet to have lodged in the brain.

He was 51 years of age and leaves a wife and one son, 16 years of age. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

BOY BURNED TO DEATH.

No One Knows What Ignited Edward Nailor's Clothes.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 6.—Edward Nailor, an infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nailor of 50 Hancock street in South Manchester, was burned to death in an unknown manner last night. The child was alone in a room shortly before 6 o'clock. The mother was out, and when she came home she found her son burned all over. The most severe burns were on the head, legs and chest. He was not dead.

City Physician John C. O'Connor went to the home and a police ambulance followed. The child was removed to a hospital and cared for. It died at 9:40 o'clock.

The mother was grief stricken at the tragedy, and in talking of it could give no coherent account of how the child happened to catch fire.

from the university green to the theatre was taken up.

Elmas Lyman, lately acting president of the university, presided at the exercises this afternoon, and the keys and seal of the university were presented to President Benton by Darwin P. Kingsley, James B. Angell, one of a host of worthies living and dead; the statesmanship of Justin S. Morrill; the princely magnificence of John P. Howard, Frederick Billings and John H. Converse; and the loyal devotion of that body of graduates who have so generously endowed it. And finally, it embodies the fine spirit, the lofty ideals, the unmatched service of Matthew Henry Buckham. We commit it to your hands with confidence some of the knowledge we have of your labors and your leadership."

After Gov. Mead had delivered the oath of office, Mr. Kingsley said: "On behalf of the trustees of the university of Vermont and State Agricultural college, I hand you a copy of the charter of November 3, 1791, a copy of the Morrill act of 1862, donating public lands for the establishment of a college of agriculture and the mechanic arts in each state and territory of the union; a copy of the act of Congress passed in 1890, supplementing the act of 1862, and establishing agricultural experiment stations; a copy of the act of Vermont passed in 1865, incorporating the university of Vermont and State Agricultural college, together with subsequent resolves of the legislature of this state relating thereto.

"I also hand you the keys of the several buildings in which the university is housed, and, as final evidence of your authority, I hand you the seal of the institution.

"Having clothed you with the symbols of your office, I, on behalf of the corporate authority of this institution, now declare you, Guy Potter Benton, to have been duly elected and installed president of the university of Vermont and State Agricultural college."

President Benton's Inaugural.

After paying debt tribute to his predecessor, Matthew Henry Buckham, President Benton took up his subject, "Education and the State," saying: "The state university is the consummation and the culmination of the public school system. It is not clear, then, representing as it does the highest possible achievement in public education, that the state university owes certain inevitable obligations for service? There is an obligation owing first of all to the country at large. State lines are only imaginary, and the state is useful in largest measure only as it makes itself, with its own peculiar environment, of service to the people of the nation.

WRITING HISTORY OF GRANITE.

Arthur W. Brayley of Boston Now In Barre Looking Up Facts.

The first recorded use of granite in the United States was for the building of King's chapel in Boston, in 1752, the granite being obtained from boulders lying in what was called the north and south common in Braintree, now Quincy, Mass. In the 20's began in Boston what may be called a Grecian age, when a sort of Greek revival was the object of the few architects working in the town. A few buildings erected in that period still survive and excite the curiosity of even the most casual observer.

When it was learned that the granite found in such abundance in Quincy could be worked to advantage in the construction of buildings, improvements were made in the methods of quarrying, and a number of appliances for handling large stones were invented. The construction of the first railway in the United States, as well as those other appliances were due solely to the needs of the Bunker hill monument association to complete the obelisk. Since that time granite has steadily increased in importance, and the story of its development makes an interesting chapter in the industrial history of this country. All the facts connected with that development are being collected by Arthur W. Brayley of Boston, to be embodied in a history of the granite industry of New England.

He has been engaged in this work about a year and is now in Barre, seeking data for his book. A letter signed by Seward W. Jones, president of the national association of the granite industries of the United States, has been sent to members of that association, calling attention to Mr. Brayley's work and asking them to give him such assistance as they can. Mr. Brayley is a writer of essays, having been connected with newspaper or magazine work for years, and he is the author of several histories.

All Police Reserves Out.

Nine men were wounded in yesterday's trouble with the strikers and their sympathizers, and twenty men are in jail charged with rioting.

BARRE TOWN CASE
NOW BEING TRIEDE. M. Normandeau Is Suing Fire District
No. 1 on Contract to Build Dam for Reservoir.

Washington county court was still on the suit of E. M. Normandeau of Barre vs. Fire District No. 1, Barre Town, to-day, and it was not certain when the case would be completed. A jury was drawn in the case yesterday afternoon, being as follows: Clem J. Bartlett, B. H. Daniels, John Q. Flint, Pearl B. Gaylord, John L. Greenwood, Guy Humphrey, C. H. Rice, D. J. Preston, W. P. Reed, L. H. Stevens, Arthur Utton, J. Bert Wells.

The suit is over a contract between Normandeau and the town to build a dam for a reservoir, and the claim of the plaintiff is that by reason of changed condition the work cost more than the contractor was led to use as a basis in figuring the job.

An information has been filed in county court against Daniel and Martha Lund of Barre, for alleged violation of the law relating to marriage of near relatives. It is alleged that a nephew married his aunt.

John Stewart of Barre is held in $500 for alleged keeping with intent to sell, Charles Chadrone and G. Shadrone are held in $500 each on charges of illegal keeping.

The Barre Savings Bank & Trust company has entered a suit in general assumpsit against the Empire Granite Quarry company.

Two divorce cases have been entered, Josephine Nelson against John Nelson and L. K. Clark against Lena Clark. The case of Liberson vs. Liberson is being heard in chambers to-day, it being over a petition to sell some part of the property, which is in the hands of a receiver at the present time.

POLICEMAN FLAGGED TRAIN.

To Warn Freight Train Crew of Serious Cave-in.

While walking along the Williams-town track last night shortly before 6 o'clock, Mrs. David Devecchi stepped into a deep hole and narrowly escaped serious injury before she could recover her balance and reach terra firma again. She sent word to Officer George Carle, who visited the scene of the fall and found that a bad cave-in had occurred. He telephoned to the Central Vermont station and learned that an engine and a short string of freight cars had just started for Williamstown. The extent of the cave-in could not be learned on account of the darkness, so Officer Carle was asked to flag the approaching freight train.

This he did, and a later investigation revealed a hole some twenty feet in depth and measuring six feet across the top. The cave-in occurred at the trestle near Cambria street. After ascertaining that the trestle could be crossed without danger, the train proceeded slowly over the cave-in and on to Williamstown.

Mrs. Devecchi sustained a bruised limb in the fall, but was fortunate in not suffering more serious injuries. Workmen repaired the break near the trestle to-day.

BODY TAKEN TO BURLINGTON.

Following Autopsy on Remains of Edward Chevalier Yesterday.

The autopsy over the body of Edward Chevalier, the barber, whose sudden death occurred at the home of Fred Bressaw, 8 Summer street, Wednesday morning, was finished yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. In the presence of Health Officer Joe W. Jackson, the attending physician, Dr. P. S. Duffy, Dr. B. H. Stone and his assistant, Dr. C. F. Dalton, of the state laboratory at Burlington, made a careful post mortem examination of the remains. No statement as to the cause of death was given out, although Dr. Stone took such organs as the stomach, liver and heart to the state laboratory for further examination. It is said that the dead man's stomach was found to be in an extremely bad condition. Drs. Stone and Dalton returned to Burlington last night at 5:45 o'clock. It is probable that their report will be forwarded
